

As blogs go, this one is still taking its baby steps. We launched it in January this year to try and bring some fresh content and help you get a clearer sense of what YOUR experience of Reach Cambridge programs could be like.

If you're new to this blog, get involved!

- Read through past blog posts and leave a comment on some of them - we're monitoring all the posts and it'd be great to get the discussion on some of the past topics going now that we have more and more prospective and past students visiting this site.
- Leave a comment on this post - what would you like to read about? What is missing? Which posts did you like?

We'll continue bringing you information here and we also have big plans for this summer, so make sure you get involved now!

Don't forget that if you want an easy way to receive any new blog posts, you can subscribe with your email address at the bottom of the page.
