

On Day 11 of Program 1 students continued to showcase their knowledge and talent across a large variety of disciplines!

Business students worked on a product development and innovation project, creating products of their own out of lego and pitching them to the class. The practical elements continued with other subjects such as physics, whilst Liberal Arts students looked at theory, discussing the future of medicine and the ethics of robot doctors!

The preparation for the much-anticipated talent show began in the afternoon, with many students practicing their singing and musicality for the evening's events. We couldn't be more in awe of the students' talents, their beautiful singing and instrumentals, their crowd engagement, and the enthusiasm with which they threw themselves into the show. Huge congratulations to all!
