

Today and yesterday, lessons continued but classes were each allotted time to go out into Cambridge. They were given tours of the city centre via foot, and then via punt, offering a glimpse inside the colleges from The Backs. Everyone was very well-dressed today as we also had the Reach photo, a huge picture of everyone on the program together.

One of the highlights of the Reach Cambridge program is the World Fair, and amazing opportunity for students to share their country and their culture with each other. It was incredible to see all of the work that had gone into the presentations and stalls created by the students, making for a very fun and informative evening! There was candy from China, noodles from Indonesia, scones from Britain and so much more. The students shared fun facts about their countries, top places to visit and sights to see, and there was even dancing from the students of Cathedral and John Connon School.
